The grasscloth ground is woven with natural fibres resulting in inherent imperfections in both colour and texture. This wallcovering has a nonwoven backing, so it is important to follow the installation guide with great care. Due to nature of the digital printing process, the grasscloth base may be more visible in certain areas which is unavoidable due to the variances of the natural fibres.

Variations between drops will always occur, and the seams will be visible, but following our suggestions will enhance the installation further.
